

EX ANTE

OUR MISTAKE

Recently, one of our advisers gently pointed out to us that “the short piece speculating on the meaning of lady justice (from Ohio) . . . confused her ‘left’ arm with her ‘right’ arm.” See James R. Fox, “Lady” Justice, 13 GREEN BAG 2D 43 (2009). Our adviser is right (or should we say “correct”?) and we are sorry, and so we do our best, here, to make it right, by acknowledging that one arm was not left, but right, and the other left, not right.

THE BLACKMUN TROPHY

The first FantasyLaw Harry A. Blackmun Trophy ceremony (the Heisman equivalent for players of cerebral fantasy sports) was held at the George Mason University School of Law on January 12. The Champions of the 2009 FantasyLaw season are:

- Galloping Gophers League: Snack Cakes, with 683.5 points.
- Justice League: The Voting Elvii, with 586 points. (This was the closest race. The Bladiators came in second with 583.5 points.)
- Pro Se League: The Philly Busters, with 621 points.
- Stimulus Spending League: Speech or Debate Claws, 583.5 points.

In related news, winners of the 2009 FantasyLaw MVP Awards are:

- In the House of Representatives: Nancy Pelosi (D-CA), with 2961.35 average points per week. Barney Frank (D-MA) came in second with 2862.
- In the Senate: John McCain (R-AZ), with 689 average points per week. Patrick Leahy came in second with 658.147.
